NUMBER CCXXXI.

JOHN CHINAMAN AND JONATHAN.

WHAT stirring, thrilling times are these; Yankees hob-nob with the Chinese; And he can overlook the sin; Of almond eyes and olive skin, In men who have the "tin."

The Occident and Orient Met and shook hands, and smiling spent, (Although with heavy speeches bored), An evening where the wine was poured, A feast we could afford.

"Three cheers for friends across the sea! We give them "game," they give us tea; So here's a health to SUE and FINE, In "broken China" and our tongue, Three cheers from every lung!

Long may their little chopsticks wave Over the rice which feeds the brave; And may no "wooden nutmegs" be— No wooden hams of hokery— Exchanged for chests of tea.

May "wooden heads," with missions great, Not represent our noble State; But may we spotless keep the fame Won by our "granny" BULLINGAME, A man two nations claim.

These times the distant nations meet, As neighbors do, across the street; They touch the telegraphic wire, And thought flies off on wings of fire, From pole to pole, and high.

O Mandarin! now you must see Our dear, sweet Goddess, Liberty, She is a maiden passing fair, With stary eyes and flowing hair, And Hail-Columbia air.

She wears no stockings on her feet— She does not need them in the heat; But she is better dressed—just look— Than any girl in the Black Crook, Where taste throws off her cloak.

And Broadway belles so thin and pale, Might copy from her gown a trail, On which it were not safe to tread, Though spurred the heel and crowned the head.

She says some bills with lead, JOHN BELL once stepped upon her gown, And instantly she knocked him down; She pulled his hair and boxed his ears, Till on his knees he begged with tears, And roared through hemlock papers.

For mercy roared, and pardon: she Then let him up, but spoiled his tea In Boston harbor, long ago; But still his ears ring with the blow, His cheeks are still aglow.

JOHN CHINAMAN should also see Our Glorious Bird of Liberty, Oh, could he see our eagles fly, Wide-spread as they do in July, Like shadows from the sky!

Their wings extend from sea to sea; They perch on hills of victory; Their talons touch the globe, and bear The globe away through fields of air— Loud screaming everywhere.

Our eagle was about to soar, Once, when he heard a lion roar, He pounced upon him with his claws, He plucked his bill into his jaws, And didn't spare his paws.

Now, since the East has sought the West, Why, let us do for it the best; Let nothing but the waters flow Between us while we better grow, So tip the tea-pot low.

Let merchants risk their gain and loss, Let missionaries plant the cross, In China, where CONFUCIUS taught Justice in deed and Truth in thought; That things, not men, are bought.

In the celestial land where man Wears wooden shoes and wields the fan, The women keep in from the street, Because their blessed little feet, Though small, were never clean.

Their feet can scarcely bear the load Of beauty on the public road; At home these dumpy darlings stay, Because they cannot walk away, To parties night and day.

Celestial cripples stumbling o'er Their husbands' hearts and matted hair— The heavenly hobblers in their gait, Have "learned to labor and to wait, With heart for any fate."

Now, let the Chinese crackers blaze— This is one of our gala days! From continent to continent, We go on a grand mission sent, Our flag starred like the firmament!

KISSING. "Men scorn to kiss among themselves, And scarce would kiss a brother; But women want to kiss so badly They kiss and kiss each other."

A LADY REPLIES. "Men do not kiss among themselves, It's well that they refrain; The bitter dose would vex them so, They ne'er would kiss again."

Tad Lincoln is attending school in Chicago, where he occasionally gives evidence that he possesses a share of his father's droll humor. His teacher, the other day, with a severity not altogether unbecoming, had inflicted the penalty of "marks" upon another boy for the misdemeanor of blowing his nose. Pretty soon Tad's hand signalled the tutor's eye, whereupon, TURK (boy). "Lincoln, what do you wish?" TAD. "Want to go out, sir." TURK. "For what purpose?" TAD. "To scratch my head, sir."

He goes. THUNDER.—Stopping at a village inn, there came on a thunder storm, and Captain Hall, surprised that a new country should have reached a perfection in these meteorological manufactures, said to a bystander, "Why, you have very heavy thunder here." "Well, yes," replied the man, "we do, considering the number of inhabitants."

A fellow stole a dog, and upon being detected by the owner, promised to return the animal next day. The individual received a package at the appointed hour, on which was written, "This is your dog." On opening it, the astonished man discovered ten pounds of freshly-made sausages.

A gentleman, seeing an Irishman fencing in a very barren, desolate piece of land, said, "What are you fencing in that for, Pat? A flock of sheep would starve to death on that land." "And sure, your Honor, wasn't I fencing it to keep the poor beasts out of it?" replied Pat.

Mr. Brown, who is learning the photograph business, hits on the happy idea, when taking the portrait of a little girl, of suspending an object (a pear) for the child to look at.

A picture of the pair. The result of hanging the object too low.

A young man told Dr. Bethune that he had enlisted in the army of Zion. "In which church?" asked the doctor. "In the Baptist," was the reply. "I should call that joining the navy," was the doctor's response.

TRUTH TO A HAIR.—A somewhat juvenile dandy said to a fair partner at a ball, "Don't you think, Miss, my moustaches are becoming?" To which she replied, "Well, sir, they may be coming, but they have not yet arrived."

Two Irishmen were travelling, when they stopped to examine a guide-board. "Twelve miles to Portland," said one. "Just six a-piece," said the other. And they trudged on apparently satisfied at the small distance.

A boy who heard the quotation, "A little learning is a dangerous thing," wished to stop going to school because he was afraid he should not live long enough to get past the dangerous point.

"Bridget," said a mistress to her Irish servant, "where's the gridiron?" "An' shure, ma'am, I've just after giving it to my sister's own cousin, O'Flaherty; the thing's so full of holes it's no good at all."

An Irish girl, who plumed herself on being employed in a "genteel family," was asked a definition of the term. "Where they have two or three kinds of wise and the gentlemen swear," was the reply.

A man who is advertising lodgings "to let for early risers" adds:—"Cochin China fowls of unusual vocal powers" are kept on the adjoining premises.

On a tombstone in a church-yard in Ulster is the following epitaph:—"Erected to the memory of John Phillips, accidentally shot as a mark of affection by his brother."

Why are corn and potatoes like the idols of old? Because the former have ears and bear not, and the latter have eyes and see not.

What word is that composed of five letters from which if you take two one remains?—Stone.

Why do Irishmen resemble the waves of the Atlantic?—Because they never cease lavin' the shores of the "ould country."

Why is fashionable society like a warming-pan?—Because it is highly polished but very hollow.

What religious sect should make the flower gardeners? The Bhudd-ists of the Flowery Land.

What author uses the most uncommon words?—The compiler of a dictionary.

Can a man who avoids writing be considered a pen-man?—No.

Why is a parish bell like a good story?—Because it is often toll'd.

LONG OPS.—Tall husband and short wife.

CITY ORDINANCES.

COMMON COUNCIL OF PHILADELPHIA.
CLERK'S OFFICE.
PHILADELPHIA, June 25, 1869.
In accordance with a Resolution of the Common Council of the City of Philadelphia, on Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of June, 1869, the annexed bill, entitled

"An Ordinance to Authorize a Loan for the Payment of Ground Rents and Mortgages," is hereby published for public information.

JOHN ECKSTEIN, Clerk of Common Council.

AN ORDINANCE
To Authorize a Loan for the Payment of Ground Rents and Mortgages.

Section 1. The Select and Common Councils of the City of Philadelphia do ordain, That the Mayor of Philadelphia be and he is hereby authorized to borrow, at not less than par, on the credit of the city, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, for the payment of ground rents and mortgages held against the city, for which interest not to exceed the rate of six per cent per annum, to be paid, half yearly, on the first days of January and July, at the office of the City Treasurer. The principal of said loan shall be payable and paid at the expiration of thirty years from the date of the sale of the same, without the consent of the holders thereof; and the certificates therefor, in the usual form of the certificates of city loan, shall be issued in such amount as the lenders may require, but not for any fractional part of one hundred dollars, or, if required, in amounts of five hundred or one thousand dollars; and it shall be expressed in said certificates that the loan therein mentioned and the interest thereon are payable free from all taxes.

Section 2. Whenever any loan shall be made by virtue thereof, there shall be, by force of this ordinance, annually appropriated out of the income of the corporate estates, and from the sum raised by taxation, a sum sufficient to pay the interest on said certificates, and the further sum of three per centum on the par value of such certificates so issued shall be appropriated quarterly out of said income and taxes to sinking fund, and such amount and its accumulations are hereby especially pledged for the redemption and payment of said certificates.

Resolved, That the Clerk of Common Council be and he is authorized to publish in an newspaper of this city, daily for four weeks, the ordinance presented to the Common Council on Thursday, June 25, 1869, entitled "An Ordinance to Authorize a Loan for the Payment of Ground Rents and Mortgages," and that the said Clerk, at the stated meeting of Councils after the expiration of four weeks from the date of publication of this ordinance, shall present to this Council one of each of said newspapers for every day in which the same shall have been made.
